What to Include in the Nomination Package

Financial Success of Business:

Briefly detail the financial history of the firm as well as any major obstacles or challenges the firm faced and overcame. Include the story of the firm in a clear narrative that describes the goods or services offered, the reasons for success, annual gross revenues for the past three years (so judges can chart growth), and number of employees at start-up, as well as the current number. (Remember, judges are equally interested in the financial and personal successes of the nominees and their contributions to both the local economy and their communities.)

Your submission should include:

a) History of business: Date the business was established or purchased and how it progressed to current state of success. Eligible businesses must have been owned and operated by the nominee for the last three years.

b) Major obstacles/challenges the firm faced to reach financial success.

c) Nominee's background. A brief biography with highlight on what nominee was doing before starting a business; why the business was started; what services or products the business provides, and an overview of the firm's customer base.

Economic Impact:

Discuss the firm's pattern of growth. Review the number of employees and revenue levels at start-up as compared to current levels. Assess the firm's impact on the economy over time. Does the firm promote from within, offer training, welcome interns, or participate in a journeyman's program? How many jobs has the firm created in the past three years? If applicable, describe any unique management approaches or employee benefits.

Community Impact:

Provide information on involvement of the nominee in community activities, including those specifically relating to entrepreneurship, mentoring, youth awareness, and community economic development. Detail the community events and programs supported by the nominee or their firm and who has benefited as a result. Where possible, offer stories of how this support has helped individual persons. Highlight the owner's philosophy regarding giving back to the community and how that translates into business practices. If applicable, discuss how the owner benefitted from community programs while growing up, or as an emerging entrepreneur.

Business Profile:

Provide details on any relevant awards, citations or public recognition received by the owner or firm in the last three years. List organizations with which the nominee is affiliated that support or foster minority and/or small business growth and development. Has the nominee benefited from any local business development programs, and if so, how and from whom?
